

Some useful links and apps

- - Genki Online

<https://genki3.japantimes.co.jp/>

<https://sethclydesdale.github.io/genki-study-resources/lessons-3rd/>

Genki App

•

-

Genki Vocab Cards

Details are here → <http://goo.gl/M7BnBd>

Genki Kanji Cards

GENKI Kanji Cards - Learning Basic Kanji through Vocabulary
Details are here → <http://goo.gl/VJNNxL>

Vendor: The Japan Times, Ltd.
Category: Education
Required OS: iOS 7 or later
Can be purchased at App Store

NB! These are Apps for the iPhone (Apple).

App for learning pronunciation

Android

<https://play.google.com/store/apps/details?id=jp.ac.puk.union>

iOS 版

<https://itunes.apple.com/jp/app/yunion/id1004874342?l=en&mt=8>

And, here are some useful links and apps which students who attended the previous Japanese courses introduced to the classes. You can try and find suitable ones for you!

<http://www.tofugu.com/2010/04/06/tofugu-100-best-japanese-learning-resources/>

www.tangorin.com

"Tae Kim's guide to learning Japanese"

<http://www.guidetojapanese.org/learn/>

<http://iknow.jp/>

This site costs. The student who introduced this site says, "One really cool thing about iknow.jp is that you could also make your own courses."

A student who attended JAP0501 høst introduced the site for learning how to count to 20 in Japanese using song:

Learn Japanese Numbers 1 to 20: <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=D3won-7W3Js&feature=youtu.be>

The following is a great tool for memorizing kanji/grammar/vocabulary which was introduced by a student who attended JAP0502 vår 2011. According to the student, "It's basically a program that shows you letters and words, and you try to answer correctly. You do this every day and the program records your progress. There are even several lists made for the Genki I and II series, which includes all the vocabulary from each chapter and all the kanji and the grammar."

http://ankisrs.net/#windowshttp://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Spaced_presentation

A student who attended JAP0501 høst 2015 introduced the app Obenkyo, <https://play.google.com/store/apps/details?id=com.Obenkyo&hl=en>, where you can practice and learn kanji etc. into the class.

She also finds the following online Japanese dictionary, jisho.org, really helpful (easy to search, easy to understand, shows kanji details and stroke order++). Jisho also has a feature where you can draw kanji to identify them.

Another student who attended JAP0501 høst 2015 found a very usefull resource on the internett to learn Hiragana (and Katakana) writing:

Hiragana - Writing Quiz (ひらがな - 書き方練習問

題) : <http://www.youtube.com/playlist?list=PLvncBEiHa8kjbpbjHrWqC2icz3k4lQGeC>

Another app introduced by a student is:

Human Japanese (beginner)

There is also the one for intermediate level.

A student who attended JAP0501 høst 2018 introduced

www.duolingo.com

You have to register for a free account, then choose to learn Japanese.

You will be guided through different modules, progressively learning more advanced sentences.

This student also made the cards for learning kanji. Please check the following site.

<https://tiny.cards/decks/Gxw3MxHz/jap0501-kanjis>

Another student who attended JAP0501 høst 2018 introduced how to learn hiragana&katakana based on her own experiences as follows.

“THE KANA GUIDE: How to learn kana (hiragana and katakana) FAST

I like to have these websites open while I am practicing:

<http://www.yosida.com/en/hiragana.html>

<http://www.yosida.com/en/katakana.html>

They also show the stroke order if you click the sign you are unsure about.

1. Reading kana.

Open up this website: <https://realkana.com/>

Choose what you want to learn, customise the randomiser to what's comfortable for you and start practising. Once you've practised everything in part you can expand the randomiser and test yourself on all of the hiragana/katakana. I also recommend to try different fonts once you're comfortable, because some of the kana are written differently in certain fonts.

Do this for 10 minutes or more every day until you get all of them.

Congratulations, you can now read hiragana and katakana.

Step 2: Writing kana.

Find the lyrics of a Japanese song in romaji (example:
<http://www.animelyrics.com/anime/hunterxhunter/kazenouta.htm>).

Write them down in hiragana. To begin with you will refer to the hiragana table a lot, but you quickly pick up on it. Check the link above for stroke orders.

Do this for ten minutes or more every day until it sticks.

Repeat for katakana.

Congratulations, you can now write hiragana and katakana.

Hope this helps! «

THE FOLLOWING ONES WERE INTRODUCED BY THE STUDENTS ATTENDED JAP0501 HØST 2019 & JAP0502 VÅR 2020

1. Kanji learning site

<https://www.wanikani.com/>

2. The list of RU-ending U-verbs

http://www.guidetojapanese.org/learn/grammar/verbs#Appendix_irueru_u-verbs

3. A book for learning kanji and the sites related to the book

<https://www.amazon.co.uk/Remembering-Kanji-Complete-Japanese-Characters/dp/0824835921>

The student says, "It should be noted that the book does not teach you the Japanese reading of the kanji, but rather teaches you it's general meaning and how to write it. But from my experience it makes it very easy to connect kanji to Japanese words, recognize them and write them out in the correct stroke order." This book introduces kanji in order of frequency, i.e. the most common ones are introduced first, and in order of being easiest to memorize.

This student also introduces the following links, and says, "By using these two resources, you don't really have to buy the book."

Part of the book, containing the introduction and instructions, as well as the first 294 kanji, are available for free online:

<https://nirc.nanzan-u.ac.jp/en/files/2012/12/RK-1-6th-edition-sample.pdf>

This website, with tips from other users of the book for how to remember each kanji, is also helpful.

<https://hochanh.github.io/rtk/rtk1-v6/index.html>

PDF of a book, Remembering the Kanji

http://www.lukeraniere.com/japanese/files/Heisig-RememberingTheKanji_vol1.pdf

A PARTICIPANT IN JAP0501 HØST 2020 INTRODUCES THE FOLLOWING

Extremely well structured flash card deck for ANKI (free) covering all of Genki I+II 2nd ed. vocabulary (with native audio). https://www.reddit.com/r/LearnJapanese/comments/41wxll/complete_genki_deck_for_anki_with_internal_ime/

And some others---

- * BunPro (spaced repetition grammar learning, subscription-based)
- * Weblio - finding Japanese expressions in native context. <https://ejje.webl.io/>
- * Useful books
 - A Dictionary of Basic Japanese Grammar (recommended for sentence mining strategies)
 - Tae Kim's Japanese Grammar guide (free ebook/website)
 - The Complete Guide to Japanese Kanji (for etymology)
 - Remembering the Kanji (Heisig)
 - Frequency lists for common vocabulary (free online)
 - Japanese Graded Readers (Japanese reading and listening in a gradual system - positively received but expensive)

NB! As you see above, the students previously attended the Japanese courses found and introduced very useful resources to learn Japanese. Please let me know if you find any more useful links, apps, etc. and share with your classmates. Thanks!! よろしく。

Some other useful links are as follows.

The site about JLPT

If you are interested in JLPT(Japanese Language Proficiency Test), the following site of the JLPT Resources is useful.

<http://www.tanos.co.uk/jlpt>

The Japan Foundation site

There are lots of useful information about Japan and Japanese in the following site.

<https://www.jpf.go.jp/e/index.html>

Japanese news

If you wish to challenge, try the news in easy japanese language.

<http://www3.nhk.or.jp/news/easy/>

Useful for learning Japanese culture

"Begin Japanology" on NHK is useful for learning Japanese culture.

https://www.youtube.com/results?search_query=nhk+begin+japanology

Link for NIPONICA back numbers

Here is the link for the back numbers of the journal about Japan, Niponica from the Japanese Embassy.

http://web-japan.org/niponica/backnumber_en.html

● DICTIONARIES

If you wish to have printed dictionaries, the following ones are recommended.

Kodansha's Furigana Japanese Dictionary

Kanji 2200: Listed according to Frequency and Familiarity (Sanseido)